

Prophecies for May 30, 2010

Jackie –

I thank You, Lord, that when we have bad days or weeks You let us know that we have to come to the end of our self-sufficiency, that we need to come to the end, when we have no strand of ourselves left that we can hold onto so that we know that You are God and that You are the One that works in our lives. By the law You said, when You gave it to Moses, it was a pattern of the things to come. Lord, You became that pattern, the Son, and all of that was on the outside and we followed it the best we could. And all our resolutions gain us nothing. But Lord, now by the Holy Spirit, You are working that pattern on the inside of us by the Holy Spirit. And I thank You that whether our days are glorious, a success, or difficult, Lord, that You are working that pattern inside of us and that You don't waste anything.

Fr. Chris –

Don't waste anything... He doesn't waste time either or missed opportunity...

We worship a mystery. That's what this Sunday's about – Holy Trinity Sunday. Our God is mysterious. All those words we use to describe Him like Trinity, Lamb – we talk about atonement, justification and all those words. Words we try to use for God to understand Him. But you can't understand Him with words. You have to know Him. That pattern that Jackie was talking about, it's the Holy Spirit inside of you living in you, changing you into His image. His image is mysterious, and we don't always understand it. We can't see all of it. I think the Lord would have us know He has the whole picture and we don't. To trust Him in that, to trust Him in the mystery, to let Him remain mysterious and to know Him and love Him anyway. We don't even understand our own spouses and friends sometimes – a lot of the time. How do we expect to know God? So we don't search to know or understand the whole picture. We search to know You, Lord. We seek to know You and to transform ourselves more and more into the likeness of Your Son, Jesus. Help us to enter the mystery and not try to explain it away or understand with our minds. Help us to love You in all Your befuddling mystery, to know You and not the god we've created in our heads. Help us to know You and love You, follow You.
