

Prophecies for June 6, 2010

“Resounding praise’: the very gates of hell shudder. At the resounding praise of my voice and my Body here on earth the very gates of hell shudder and fall. For the powers of darkness have no power where the Light is proclaimed. The powers of hell have no place where heaven is dwelling. I invite you to come. Come into My house and into My praise. For there you will find joy and freedom, says the Lord.”

Lord, You know how busy we’ve been... We’re all beat up. We’re all worn out, and You say, “Ah, now there’s something I can use.”

Undoubtedly there are those who would think that’s a childish song, but what father isn’t absolutely thrilled when his infant or toddler child looks up at him and sings a childish song? It just warms the cockles of a father’s heart for his children to sing. We don’t have to be profound. We just have to be in love. He just wants us to be madly, crazy in love – that we are willing to babble incoherently in His presence.
