

02/05/2010:

There is a Psalm; Psalm 73 where the psalmist is trying to make sense of all of the chaos that is going on in his world. And why the wicked seem to be able to triumph, and the people of God are having a hard time. The psalmist says, 'and then I went into the sanctuary of God and it all made sense.' When we come in before him, and we worship him, and we give him praise and glory, it refocuses us into a place where we can see his face and understand that regardless of what seems to be happening on the outside, what he is doing on the inside is far greater. I believe what the Lord would say to us today is, "Regardless of where you have been this week, and the trials and tribulations you have been through, that when you honor me, when you look to me, when you seek my face, I am there. And I will carry you, and I will support you, and I will provide for you everything that you need. Come into my sanctuary, and seek my face, and I will do for you greater things than you can begin to ask or imagine. Cry out to me and I will bless you," says the Lord. "Cry out to me, and I will provide for you. Do not be afraid. Do not put your eyes on the things of this world, but seek my face, and my glory, and I will give you all that you need," says the Lord.
