

These are the prophetic words from Sept. 9, 2007

Spoken by Father Bill:

Lord, we not only recognize You as more than enough for all that we need, we want more, we want more and more and more. Lord, teach us to yield to You in all things, not just the things that we see as religious things, but to yield our very lives to You, moment by moment, each day. We want all that You have, all that You are in our lives. Fill us to overflowing.

Spoken by Deborah Whisenant:

Father God, we recognize that sometimes things happen that have no rhyme or reason and we just can't figure it out. And there is not a place for our words anymore, but only to hear what you have to say and then figure out what your words are. Help us to really sit and feel complete.

Spoken by Carol Henninger:

Proverbs 4: (20-22) My son, Pay attention to what I say; listen closely to my words. Do not let them out of your sight, keep them within your heart; for they are life to those who find them and health to a man's whole body.

Spoken by Dianne Kerr:

We always want the healing rain to be the healing rain for our bodies, but God says it's not the healing of our bodies, it's the healing of our hearts and our minds and our souls and the healing of our love for Him, and only Him, and only then does He want our bodies to be healed.

Spoken by Father Bill:

This image as we were singing that song of the rain that came these last couple of days, and it was an all encompassing and all drenching rain. There wasn't a part of this city or this county that didn't get wet. The healing rain of God falls in the same way. It falls all over everywhere, but unless we're willing to step out from under the cover of our own designs, of our own pre-conceived notions of what it's supposed to look like, we're not going to get wet with the healing rain. Unless we want to receive the rain, unless we want to get drenched, we're not going to receive the healing that will come. Jesus said to the man at the pool, do you want to be healed? Do you want to step out from your own preconceived notions of what healing looks like? Do you want step out from your own prejudices and your own notions of what God looks like, what God is doing and receive. Unless you're willing to say yes I want to be healed, unless you're to step out and be drenched in the healing rain of God, then you're going to be dry, dry as tinder. God is saying I'm pouring out my healing rain. Do you want to be healed? My rain is there to bring life, to bring refreshment and to restore. Do you want to receive my healing rain? Do you want to be healed? Come, step out, from under the cover. Step out and be healed. Amen.

Spoken by Miranda McLoughlin:

I had a picture in my head following that song... one of the things that blocks the healing rain from really working in our lives is that we are protecting certain things from the rain, if that makes any sense. One of the archetypical images, and if you have ever watched Christian music videos, is that everybody runs out in the rain with their highly expensive musical equipment in the pouring rain. And I was thinking gee that's probably hard on people because it's really raining and they're standing there in the pouring rain with their guitars, with their drums, with everything, but that's what it takes to have healing rain. It's just stop trying to protect whatever you think is precious from God. It makes no sense but that's what we do; we block it by protecting certain things, so God doesn't get to them. We have to stop trying to protect our precious things and bring them out into the rain.

Spoken by Miranda:

Oh my children, you are asking the wrong question. Will I visit this place? I live here. The question is whether you'll visit this place. Anywhere that you call on my name, anywhere that you lift up your hands, I will be there. But here never doubt, never doubt. I am always here. It is you that needs to come to visit.
